Thank you. As you can imagine, I have no problem with people getting angry with my book and debating it very strenuously. My objection with Scheim was that he referred to my work as fraudulent in at least eight public postings. That is a serious charge, and it is unfortunate that he chose to raise the level of his attack to that unwarranted stage. Whatever happens in that regard is best done privately between Scheim and me, and I shall not post anything publicly about the possibility of legal proceedings. I hope that Scheim also keeps that discussion private.

I do appreciate all the Sysop efforts on this forum to maintain some decorum in a debate that can get very heated at times. Continued good luck as it nears the anniversary -

Gerald
